RIGHTS LAW

Monday; June 4, 2018

1:00pm-3:00pm

Council on Foreign Relations

1777 F Street, NW, Washington DC 20006

Join us for a timely discussion about important developments and new opportunities to improve the processes by which human rights judges and commissioners are nominated and elected to regional human rights systems. In particular, panelists will discuss a seminal report, published by the Open Society Justice Initiative and the International Commission of Jurists, which analyzes the nomination practices of 22 countries in the Americas, Europe and Africa, identifying outstanding practices, and offering recommendations for improvements. The event will be held in English. Lunch will be served.

PANELISTS:

Hugo Cayrús (invited)

Permanent Representative for Uruguay to the OAS

Christian De Vos
